

Improve the safety and security of key executives, elected officials and other principals as well as their families, staff, shareholders and constituents.

Planning, designing and implementing a highly customized protective security program demands a nuanced approach that respects the goals, preferences, lifestyle and privacy of the executives and individuals afforded protection.

Hillard Heintze helps clients develop and manage executive protection programs by embracing the best practices, research findings and methodologies employed at the highest levels of the U.S. agencies charged with protecting the President and other world leaders.

EXECUTIVE PROTECTION SERVICES

- Improved safety and security of protectees as well as family, staff, shareholders and constituents
- Stronger assurance that the appropriate prevention-oriented countermeasures are in place
- Better long-term program planning and sustainable control over costs without increasing risks
- Enhanced corporate and executive tax planning and compliance with IRS requirements

SCOPE OF SERVICES

Protection Program Evaluation

Analysis of the risks, threats and vulnerabilities related to the personal safety and security of the protected individuals, their family, and their staff; existing resources and capabilities securing the workplace, primary residence and common travel patterns; and the most attractive opportunities to improve program effectiveness and capture cost efficiencies immediately and over time.

Independent Security Assessment

Tailored to fulfill the Internal Revenue Service statutory requirements as they relate to validating employer-provided transportation for security concerns, business-oriented security concerns and overall security programs as set forth in Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, Treasury Regulation Section 1.132-5 [CITE: 26CFR1.132-5].

Executive Protection Program Launch or Improvement Initiatives

Guidance on integrating the critical issues, challenges and best practices fundamental to establishing a full service program - from leadership, funding and best practice strategies to right sizing the investment to align with risks, threats and vulnerabilities.

Special Focus Assignments

Examples include (1) executive searches for candidates to lead executive protection programs; (2) advisory support to management related to major events or issues; and (3) recommendations on special challenges relating to areas such as physical and technical security, transportation and travel security, personnel practices, safeguarding adolescents and young adults, protective intelligence, background screening and emergency preparedness.
