

Launch an Office of Inspector General (OIG) – or enhance an existing OIG’s audit, investigations, inspections and evaluations – to address and prevent fraud, waste, abuse and mismanagement.

Today, an increasing number of public and private entities are establishing an Office of Inspector General – either in response to a legislative mandate or in recognition of the merits of independent oversight and its positive impact on the overall health, growth and effectiveness of an organization.

Hillard Heintze supports the ability of organizations to quickly and cost effectively establish an independent Office of Inspector General program from scratch, or significantly improve the effectiveness of any single program element – from leadership and strategy to core operations, key resources and reporting.
